House leader urges talks w/o conditions

Jalandoni pushes for release of 'Morong 43'

By TJ Burgonio and Christine O. Avendaño

TO AVOID hitches in the resumption of peace talks, the government and the communist-led National Democratic Front of the Philippines (NDFP) should not impose difficult preconditions, a former Armed Forces chief of staff said yesterday.

Muntinlupa Rep. Rodolfo Biazon, chair of the House defense committee, reminded both camps that negotiations in the past had been stalled by "impossible preconditions."

"Both sides must refrain from putting in very difficult preconditions. They mess things up," said Biazon, who served as a consultant to the National Unification Commission that oversaw the peace process in the 1990s. "We start afresh. No preconditions."

The government and the NDFP are expected to resume formal negotiations in Oslo, Norway, in February next year after a five-year hiatus. Both

LET IT SNOW? Government officials did not expect this level of attention from some 50,000 people but when the snow turned out to be light soap suds floating over Baguio City's Session Road, they had to deal with a few angry parents who carried disappointed children.

No snow but soap suds in Baguio 'winter'

By Vincent Cabreza
Inquirer Northern Luzon

BAGUIO CITY—A huge crowd hoping to get a feel of winter in this summer capital was treated instead on Saturday night to soap foams floating in the cool air instead of ice flakes in what was billed as "snow drama."

Angry spectators denounced the snow fakery.

Between 30,000 and 50,000 people packed a 200-meter stretch of downtown Session Road for a glimpse of the Christmas project on the drawing board since 2008.

Families and their children and students who participated in a lantern parade celebrating the centennial of Saint Louis University jostled with visitors from neighboring provinces for the widely publicized spectacle.

Ex-NBI chief says Webb et al. are guilty

By Tina G. Santos

TO THIS DAY, former National Bureau of Investigation chief Mariano Mison remains certain of the guilt of Hubert Webb and the five other accused in the 1991 Vizconde massacre case.

Mison brushed aside Webb's alibi that he was in the United States when the grisly murders took place and his family's attempts to discredit the testimony of the main prosecution witness, Jessica Alfaro, as nothing more than the ranting of a drug addict.

He stressed that Alfaro's evidence was corroborated by Webb's two house helps, one of whom claimed she washed his bloody clothes, and by the neighborhood security guards who said they saw the son of former Sen. Freddie Webb on the night of the massacre.

"I really believe it was him," Mison said of Hubert Webb in an interview at his Quezon City residence on Saturday.

Mison said the same thing during an interview with the Inquirer a day after the court decision was promulgated 10 years ago, convicting Webb and

TELLING THE FILIPINO STORY TO THE WORLD

Editors' Note: For 25 days, we will be telling stories about the Inquirer to mark the paper's 25th anniversary on Dec. 9, 2010. Some are little inside stories but impacting on how we cover unfolding events; some are mark-the-day stories that became talk-of-the-town types; others are turning-point stories that have changed the landscape of history; still others, big or small, seize the heart and never let go.

Be whatever, the Inquirer will tell you the story.

When newsroom becomes electric

By John Nery

ON ANY given day, the newsroom crackles with excitement, especially when the various deadlines loom. But when the newsroom is in the grip of a major event, the air in the building is positively electric.

The challenge of getting what Carl Bernstein calls "the best obtainable version of the truth" into the newspaper's pages, in a mere hour or two, gets the adrenaline going in our veins like new copper wires conducting electricity.

Of many such charged moments, the night of Sept. 11, 2001, may be particularly instructive. That night (morning in New York City and Washington, DC) showed how Inquirer editors and other staff reacted to the dawning of a terrible new age, both as consumers of media and as journalists adjusting in real time to breaking news.

Managing editor Jorj Nolasco happened to be reading wire news stories off dedicated dot-matrix printers (we didn't have laser printers then) when a report stopped him cold.

Protestant churches back RH bill

THE LARGEST alliance of Protestant and non-Roman Catholic churches in the Philippines has thrown its support behind the controversial reproductive health (RH) bill as "a means to encourage Filipino couples to seriously consider how to plan their family."

The National Council of Churches in the Philippines (NCCP) said the RH bill was more than just about the promotion of artificial contraceptives.

NCCP members include the Episcopal Church in the Philippines, the Apostolic Catholic Church, the Convention of Philippine Baptist Churches, the United Methodist Church and the United Church of Christ in the Philippines, among others.

I can get Lacson off the hook–JPE

By Gil Cabacungan

SEN. PANFILO Lacson will not go to jail for the alleged abduction and murder of public relations practitioner Salvador "Bubby" Dacer and his driver Emmanuel Corbito, solely on the testimony of the fugitive lawmaker's former aide, ex-police Supt. Cesar Mancao II, according to Senate President Juan Ponce Enrile.

"I studied the records against him and, in a fair trial, I don't think you can get a conviction just on the statement of Mancao which has been changing," Enrile said in an interview over radio station dzBB.

Lacson's lawyers argued that the latest manifestation to the court showed that Mancao only learned of the supposed operation to abduct and murder Dacer and Corbito ex post facto or after the fact, which made "his testimony that he overheard the alleged plan being discussed prior to its commission nothing but a pure fabrication."

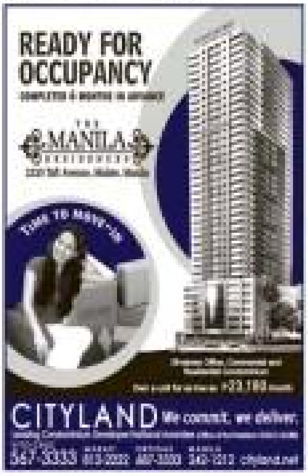

Enrile said that another witness, Glenn Dumlao, had contradicted Mancao's claim and said that he was coerced by prosecutors to pin down his former boss.

"If you are the judge, you should only convict a person when you know he is guilty beyond reasonable doubt. A skillful lawyer can create a wide area of doubt to attack the case of the government. Based on my experience as a lawyer, if I were to handle the case, I'm quite confident I can get him out," Enrile said.

But Enrile said Lacson should heed the advice of Justice Secretary Leila de Lima that the best course of action for Lacson was to petition for bail rather than seek a reinvestigation of the case.

De Lima had noted that the Court of Appeals had already turned down the appeal for a reinvestigation and said that the DOJ could not do anything in the case because it was already with the Manila Regional Trial Court.

Customs head warns smugglers

CUSTOMS COMMISSIONER Angelito Alvarez is stepping up the government's crackdown on rice smuggling with the impounding of four container vans loaded with 1,400 sacks of premium white rice that were misdeclared as [illegible] by its importer.

Alvarez said in a press statement that the contraband's seizure should [illegible] disinformation spread by certain quarters that illegal rice importations had [illegible] blessings.

"[illegible] my name could be [illegible] in a [illegible] because I have issued instructions to all customs collectors to put on alert and subject to a 100 percent inspection all the shipments of importers who would invoke my name in any illegal transaction," the commissioner warned importers.

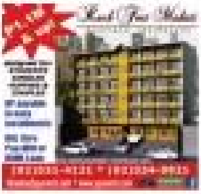

Alvarez ordered the X-ray examination of all container vans unloaded at regional and [illegible] ports amid reports that rice and sugar smugglers had moved their operations out of the Port of Manila and the Manila International Container Port.

A customs official discovered the illegal rice shipment with a dutiable value of P3 million on Dec. 2 after the four container vans were subjected to X-ray scanning at the Mindanao Container Terminal in Tagoloan, Misamis Oriental.

Ms. [illegible] Manganang, head of the Bureau of Customs X-Ray Inspection Project, said the rice shipment came from Vietnam on board the MV [illegible] of American President Lines and was consigned to [illegible] de Oro-based [illegible] Enterprises.

Manganang said the shipper, [illegible] Enterprises, apparently tried to evade higher duties and taxes. Imported rice has a duty rate of 50 percent, 10 times higher than the 5-percent rate on fish meal.

Reconstitute SBMA board, P-Noy urged

SUBIC BAY FREEPORT—The Subic Bay Freeport Chamber of Commerce (SBFCC) urged President Aquino to reconstitute the board of directors that oversees this free port, saying its absence has crippled the flow of investments to the area.

Danny Piano, SBFCC president, raised the matter in a Nov. 30 letter, saying reconstituting the Subic Bay Metropolitan Authority (SBMA) board, "even on a temporary basis, [will] allow important board decisions [to] be acted upon, especially on matters of urgent concern to existing and potential investors in the Subic Bay Freeport."

The 15-member SBMA board lost 13 of its directors when Mr. Aquino issued Executive Order No. 2, which revoked the midnight appointments made by former President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo before the May 10 elections.

Mr. Aquino's directive terminated the services of Eddie Tamondong, Mario Garcia, Herbert Soho, Ricardo Concilbala, Jesus Vicente Magsaysay III, Modesto Pineda, Angelito Chua, Alvin Capino, Ariel Castro, Jorge Bernardez, Francis Garcia and Jennifer Ting, who were all appointed on March 1.

"It has been three to four months since the issuance of EO No. 2 which resulted 'midnight appointments' and affected the majority of the SBMA board of directors' positions. Important matters requiring SBMA board approval [are] pending ... Therefore, this is putting investments inside the Subic Bay Freeport on a standstill," said Piano.

"While we respect the order, we are also aware that it is currently being challenged in the court of law.

However, without a temporary restraining order, a reconstitution of a temporary board of directors, at least until after a final decision is made by the courts, should be an option worth pursuing," he added.

The Inquirer tried but failed to get the reaction of SBMA Administrator Armand Arreza to the SBFCC appeal.

But in an earlier interview, Arreza said the SBMA needed a complete set of directors to resolve the delays in privatizing the New Container Terminal Port 2 here and to deal with pending offers for the Subic airport.

Arreza said the SBMA board must also address the delayed conversion of a race track and a staff-owned property, and must evaluate proposals for renewable energy projects.

"The SBFCC has always been politically neutral, and will, therefore, not endorse anybody for an SBMA board of director position. We hope, however, that the law is followed," Piano said.

He said the composition of the previous board of directors had not complied with Republic Act No. 7227 or the Bases Conversion and Development Act of 1992, which created the Subic Bay Freeport.

He said the government did not fulfill a provision of the law which required the appointment of five representatives from the private sector, who come from the tourism sector, the public works sector, the shipment facility, the naval supply depot, the former naval air station and the business and investment sector.

"We sincerely hope that the next [appointment] will be [implementing] these section," he said. Robert Gonzaga, Inquirer Central Luzon

Family of abducted principal still hoping she is alive

BONGAO, Tawi-Tawi—The family of kidnapped Basilan school principal Cecilia Sonas said they were optimistic about her coming home one day despite rumors she had been killed or have died in captivity.

Sonas, of the Basa Elementary School in Lantawan, was kidnapped on Nov. 15 by suspected Abu Sayyaf gunmen, along with another teacher.

Her companion, Marilyn Yorigan, was released unharmed shortly after the abduction.

Since being kidnapped, there had been no word from her abductors, SPO2 Nestor Sonas, the principal's husband, said.

"There was no single communication or contact from the captors," he said.

But Sonas said the fact that no official information on his wife's condition was available never dampened their hope.

Nestor, head of the Sulu police's Explosives and Ordnance Division, admitted there had been lot of rumors that Cecilia was "allegedly gone."

"She is alive and we are waiting for a proof of life, which is expected anytime," he said.

Domingo Lardizabal, president of the Lantawan Parents and Teachers Association, said Department of Education officials, not only in Basilan, are very supportive of the Sonas family.

Meanwhile, Lardizabal said classes at Basa Elementary School may still not be held today.

He said teachers at the school were told to report to the division office until there were sure their security. Julie Alipala, Inquirer Mindanao

Mideo Cruz at Anna
In "Homage To The End Of The Equinox," painter Mideo Cruz used the imageries of carved animals that are usually enveloped and presented their dual images—inside and out. This is the homage to the end of equinox. The show opens Dec. 1 at the Manila Mall, Galerie Anna Lilirrea B, 4/F, Bldg. A, SM Megamall, Mandaluyong; tel. 4700511, 470 8888; e-mail [illegible]. It runs until Dec. 16.

Tapaya at UP Vargas
The University of the Philippines Vargas Museum (tel. 9281927, 9818500 loc. 4024; e-mail vargasmuseum@gmail.com; www.vargasmuseum.org) in cooperation with the Drawing Room Gallery concludes the 2010 calendar with the exhibition "Bulaklak ng Dila" by Rodel Tapaya. The exhibition opens Dec. 10, 3 p.m., at the Lobby and West Wing Gallery of the Vargas Museum. Tapaya explores the idiomatic expression pertaining to the exaggeration of truths. Realigned with the everyday and with the current social climate, the artist interprets a local proverb through allegory, incorporating various media from oil and glass painting, to sculpture, installation, drawing, mural, drawing and portraits framed by tin.

Pintura group at De las Islas
"Call of Art" by the Pintura Art Group in cooperation with the UE College of Fine Arts is on view until Dec. 10 in Galeria de las Islas (2/F, Jillaino Center, 748 Gen. Luna St., Intramuros, Manila; tel. 5271178). The show features over 30 paintings rendered in colorful mixtures of colors and textural gestures of surreal and realist images depicting aesthetic concerns about Filipino society and subjects of human interest. Participating artists are Dickoy Domingo, Fernando Antonino, Brandon Emilio, Jericho Aquino, Boy Montanez, Loren Baguit, Jessica Sotto, Nonette Bunda, Ronell Angeles, Ruby Ulleles, Bertol Villegas, John Sermonte, Jimmi Padilla, Jose Capito, Jeremy de Mesa, Jerome Saza, Mario Tagaro, Leonie Gonzaga, Chloe de Guzman, Salvador Capistrano, Mateo Tan, April Rose Bayola, Jonathan Bulawa, Glen Policarpio and Mark Hechavarria.

Manila Contemporary celebrates 2nd anniversary
Manila Contemporary celebrates its second anniversary this December with "The Light Show," an exhibition of light sculptures and objects that transform the gallery into a welcoming lounging space. Conceptual artist and curator Katya Guerrero collaborates with twelve artists who work with their hands in exploring themes of design, technology and spirituality. For this exhibit, Guerrero implores the participating artists to rediscover light—its past, present and future—by asking the very simple question "What is light?" Participating artists are Eric Abuyo, Jose Alcasares, Bea Camacho, Jin Jason.

'Kids' breaks new ground for lesbians on film

NEW YORK—It isn't stirring the same buzz as that "gay cowboy film," but Oscar contender "The Kids Are All Right" may give [illegible] of lesbians in Hollywood a positive boost the way "Brokeback Mountain" shattered previous depictions of gay men. "Kids," in the most prominent [illegible] film yet to hit cinemas centered on the lives of a lesbian couple, powered by two big stars, Annette Bening and Julianne Moore, a clever script and classy directing, critics agree. Reuters
